PC hardware is nice, but it's not much use without innovative software. I've been reviewing software for PCMag since 2008, and I still get a kick out of seeing what's new in video and photo editing software, and how operating systems change over time. I was privileged to byline the cover story of the last print issue of PC Magazine, the Windows 7 review, and I've witnessed every Microsoft win and misstep up to the latest Windows 11. This update is also required for Lightroom 5.4, which includes many other improvements, including Fly by the Seat of your Pants mode, a NEW Live Tools tab, and the ability to create or use presets for selection, adjustment, and curing. The update also takes out the notoriously bad, unnamed bug that was present in the 4.11.x series. Version 5.4 should also be available on October 15th. File formats are EXR, TIFF, and DNG, and Lightroom possesses all of the features present in Photoshop. Groups have a new feature called "Adjacent" that makes it easy to achieve some creative effects like ribboning or cornering. I could have gone on for another three hours, but I'll stop myself there. Better in most ways and not as good in a couple, Lightroom 5 is an essential update for anyone working with digital photography. I would recommend it to you, even if you've never used the program, although I do think the free trial is a bit insulting. If you're a well-rounded photographer with at least some photo editing capabilities, an exclamation point should be going on right now.
