maps No need to visit a web site to update the map World Heatmap Creator Limitations: Currently only works with Windows-based operating systems Only displays locations on the world map, does not generate maps of specific locations Q: Add class to current clicked element This is the page I'm working on. You can see that when you click on the "Change" button, the title element's CSS changes. I'm trying to do this by giving the clicked title element the current class and then removing the current class. Example This is the target element Change Title function clicked(el) { var currentClass = el.classList[0];

To mark locations on a World map, you need to enter the latitude and longitude corresponding to a location. In the coordinates area, you have to input the latitude and longitude of the location. If you have selected a custom location, you will get the latitude and longitude of the custom location in the coordinates area. The latitude and longitude are automatically detected by the application, but you can adjust it manually by moving the sliders. Once you are done, hit OK and you will see the latitude and longitude marked on the World map. Use the

FLOWBACK time in the FLOWBACK area to return to the previous location. You can also save the current location (latitude and longitude) to a file. This software simulates 3D city models using street view photo maps to do visualization. The main use is for architecture design. You can model your building/house on your computer with the camera view as if you were standing on the building site. You can draw on the 3D floor and the view will change automatically to see the model from different viewpoints. You can rotate, change the zoom, tilt, move to the selected location and take pictures of the view around you. dpa is a data publishing application that aims to give you the opportunity to easily publish your own data sets or interesting information. dpa allows you to design your own bookmarks for your data sets. dpa stores information locally, it is not centralized on dpa.com. To make a bookmark you only have to enter a title and a URL, the application will be automatically given the name of the bookmark and will store the URL in a searchable database. Once published, the search field is automatically added to the dpa toolbar so you can enter the URL of your bookmark by clicking on the
